

A touring adventure of the Telling Trees Project

STONE COUNTY'S
TOLD-YOU-SO TOURS

Spend a day in out-of-the-ordinary places
soaking in the sights and stories of Stone County, where a bit of magic awaits you around every corner.
It's why we always say, "We told you so."

STONE COUNTY'S TOLD-YOU-SO TOURS

Select any combination from the tours below.
Visit one site, or visit them all. It's up to you!

- The Pecan House is a charming shop offering homemade, hand-dipped chocolate pecan candies and a treasure trove of other gifts. Your group will watch the candy-making magic happen, and sample a range of delectable Pecan House goodies.
- Bodine's Pottery is a place for your "inner artist" to get creative. Master potter Pat Bodine offers a pottery demonstration, followed by his wife Nancilee who will tell the history of their pottery studio and art gallery. Groups can browse the Bodine Gallery, admiring the works of Mississippi artists for sale. Your group can also create either a tile painting or a pottery pinch pot to take home.
- Serendipity is a unique antique store and deli in downtown Wiggins offering your group gourmet sandwiches, salads and homemade desserts for lunch, while Telling Trees actors tell stories from Stone County's past. Afterward, your group can stroll Blaylock Park and shop in some of the downtown boutiques.
- G&M Goat Farm is Mississippi's only certified goat farm. Your group will learn how Gloria and Morris Richardson raise their South African Boer goats and how their Great Pyrenees dogs protect the herd. The Richardsons also offer goat cheeses and skin care products in their retail shop on the farm. Bring your cameras for a photo with Stoney the Goat!
